

Gulliver's Travels

Once, a in a huge storm, a ship capsized.

Gulliver grabbed a wooden plank and floated in the ocean. Soon he lost consciousness.

The next day, Gulliver woke up and was tied up on the beach by tiny people, the Lilliputians.

Gulliver told the soldiers his story and they brought him to the king. Gulliver and the king became good friends

The king's cooks prepared a banquet for Gulliver.

The king told Gulliver that their enemies would soon attack and asked for Gulliver's help. Of course, Gulliver agreed to help.

Gulliver tied rope to the enemy's boats and dragged them to shore. The enemy surrendered.

Gulliver missed his family. One day Gulliver found an old boat that had come on to the shore. He got in a sailed away.

He told all his friends about the little people. Nobody believed him.

Gulliver went back to the sea and was shipwrecked again

This time he was in a land of giants. The giants made Gulliver do a dance and sing for people.

The queen gave Gulliver a tiny doll house.

A bird stole the doll house and flew far away. The bird dropped the house near the shore of a faraway land.

It was Gulliver's home land. He told all his friends about the giants. Nobody believed him. Gulliver did not leave home again.
